

Summary of Teamwork

In this summary, we will briefly summarize how Chuyi and Zixin contribute to the project collectively and individually.

- Collectively:

At the beginning, we worked on the project setup, the phase-by-phase project planning, and the public use cases implementation together. Afterwards, we developed the remaining use cases individually, and used GitHub to synchronize the code. We helped each other debug during the development process. After the individual development is done, we worked together again to combine our work and deal with all the remaining problems. We also worked together to insert the test case data into the databases.

- Chuyi Zhang

For the coding part, Chuyi is in charge of all the use cases related to customers and booking agents. She is also responsible for project testing & polishing, and UX design. For the paperwork, Chuyi wrote the report on use cases and queries, and helped revise other reports.

- Zixin Wang

For the coding part, Zixin is in charge of all the use cases related to airline staff. He also implemented the phone number storage for the staff. For the paperwork, Zixin wrote most of the progress report, most of the summary of teamwork, and the report on file structures.
